

Kimberly Quon focuses her practice on the defense of civil litigation matters, with an emphasis on general liability, environmental, and business litigation. She represents a diverse group of clients, including small businesses, premises owners, contractors, and product manufacturers, distributors, and suppliers. Kimberly has defended companies in both state and federal courts at various stages of litigation in complex and multiparty actions, including pretrial through trial. Kimberly has prepared successful dispositive motions, including motions for summary judgment and summary adjudication, in both state and federal courts. She has also successfully obtained voluntary dismissals and favorable settlements on behalf of her clients.

REPRESENTATIVE SUCCESSES

- Motions for summary judgment granted on behalf of product manufacturers, contractors, and premises owners in personal injury matters.
- Successfully secured dismissals on behalf of premises owner as the result of motions for summary judgment filed in order to demonstrate to plaintiffs that they could not prevail on their theory of premises owner liability, despite extensive testimony from various witnesses.
- Secured dismissals on behalf of product manufacturer and premises owner, as the result of filing motions to strike essential prior testimony, in order to demonstrate to plaintiffs that no admissible evidence existed to prove their cases.

BEYOND THE OFFICE

While in law school, Kimberly served as the executive editor for Whittier Law Review and also worked as a research assistant on a constitutional law project, one of her favorite areas of law. She was a recipient of the Dean's Merit Scholarship and was on the Honor Roll, Dean's List, and was a Dean's Fellow and a CALI awards recipient. Kimberly has volunteered as a law clerk for the Orange County District Attorney's Office, Homicide Unit, and the Orange County Superior Court, in addition to having served as a competing member of the Trial Advocacy Honors Board, which provided her with valuable mock trial experience that ultimately led to her passion for litigation.

Kimberly enjoys leading a healthy and active lifestyle. Her hobbies include Pilates, spinning, bike riding, running, gardening, snowboarding, and cooking. During her spare time, Kimberly enjoys attending wine tastings, trying new restaurants, and visiting the beach to fully enjoy the great Southern California weather! Kimberly comes from a close-knit family, one that always makes sure to sit down together for Sunday dinner, despite all their busy lives.
