

Matt Cole is an experienced litigator focusing at Walsworth on the defense of construction, product liability, premises liability, and general liability matters. Matt's experience includes the representation of individuals and corporations in everything from property damage to catastrophic injury claims.

Throughout his 20-year career, Matt has achieved favorable results for a wide variety of clients, including numerous successful motions for summary judgment and settlements. He has handled hundreds of cases through all phases of litigation including discovery, motion work, witness and expert depositions, mediation, trial preparation, and trial.

Prior to joining Walsworth, Matt also handled business litigation, professional liability, real estate, and toxic tort matters.

REPRESENTATIVE SUCCESSES

- Soho Square Association v. Wellesley Manor Corp. – Successfully defended a motion for summary judgment in a large apartment complex construction defect case where the air conditioning manufacturer claimed that there was no privity and expired warranty as it concerned my general contractor client.
- Successfully mediated a complex multi-vehicle accident case for five figures, which was brought by a motorcyclist who was ejected from his bike and was alleging significant injuries.
